NURSES AT EVERY ARMY POST

MAJOR HARRIS THINKS THAT SUCH MAY BE THE OUTCOME OF WCMAN'S SUCCESS.

MRS MAXWELL WAS CALLED "MOTHER" BY THE COLORED TROOP SES AT CAMP WIKOFF,

AND ENJOYED THE NOVEL

"Camp Wikoff will soon be a thing of the past, but the memory of what women have done there will not soon die out," said a hospital nurse to a Tribune reporter yesterday. "The experiment of having them in camp," she continued, "has proved to be extremely successful, as the statements made on every side, from the commanding officer down to the private, will witness."

omen have been invaluable to us as nurses, said Dr. A. A. Nouel, who is a man of wide experience, having practised in the West Indies and South America. "We would have lost many more of our patients had it not been for their good nursing. Their work has been excellent, and they were of a superior class of women.

"I have only one fault to find with women. When they are mothers, sisters and wives they are the bane of the Army surgeon's life, and cause a good deal of trouble by trying to get soldiers away before they are sufficiently convalescent to be re-taking their boys home they disturbed the patient's mind. Then there was nothing to do but let them go. Others took them and distributed them about the country, and this gave the impression that we could not care for our sick, which was not true. All the men could have been cared for here, and many of them much better than they were at the places to which they were taken."

Major Harris, of the Divisional Hospital, was so well satisfied with the experiment there that he sent ten nurses down to Huntsville in advance of the regiment. " he said, "the work of the nurses has been segreat revelation to us. They have done excellent service, and have been no added care to us. The men have behaved admirably, and I have not had one complaint from the nurses themselves. I should not be surprised if the outcome would be that every Army post would have at least two nurses stationed there for the care of the sick."

Among the nurses who have been transferred to Fort Monroe is Mrs. Harriet Maxwell, who during the latter part of her stay at Camp Wikoff has had under her care a large number of 10th Cavalry (colored). She showed such consideration and care of her patients that they all improved rapidly.

One poor fellow, while delirious, called her mother.

"You shot up! What you call a white lady?" exclaimed the boy in the next cot.

"Hush, hush!" said the nurse. "I am his mother until he gets well."

"Are you my mother, too, then?"

"Why, yes, if you wish it." the nurse replied, soothingly, and forthwith they all commenced to call her mother.

"Inst. before leaving one of the boys said to her:

Just before leaving one of the boys said to her:
"You've been good to us, and we'd like to keep you for our mother. If you won't be mad we'd

Mrs. Maxwell was deeply affected at this mark of appreciation. She thanked the boys, and putting on the hat, said:

The hat is a 10th Cavalry hat, with the regimental sabres on the front.

When she boarded the train a number of the colored troopers went and presented her with a basket of fruit and other delicacies. She was wearing her hat, and the boys were proud of her, and not loath to show it.

BELONGINGS OF FAMOUS PEOPLE.

Most of the articles that once belonged to famous people are now scattered all over the world. The wedding dress of that unfortunate Queen, Marie Antoinette, was discovered not long ago in the arcient church of Kenuweg, near Vienna. A plane which Napoleon Bonaparte had made for piano which Napoleon Bonaparte had made for the Empress Josephine, in 1808, is now in a Lon-don showroom. The cradle of Emperor Napoleon occupied the drawing room of the late Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger, being heaped with flowers. It is not a noticeable piece of furniture, being made of some dark wood, and having no particular orna-mentation.

Now that the General Hospital is about to close, the narses and volunteer workers are hurrying home for a much needed rest, but before we boys leave here we wish to extend our thanks to our doctor, nurses and more especially to one, Miss Ada Perry, who has been the guardian angel of our ward and regiment for several weeks. Though little more than a girl in years, she has been a blessing to many a heartbroken parent during her five weeks' work at camp and a friend and comfort to all of us boys. Morning, noon and night she was on some errand of mercy, and her only regret was when leaving that through lack of funds she would be unable to go with her boys to Huntsville, Ala. She has won the respect of officers and privates, and we ask that God take care of her, for she is a noble woman. Very truly, SNEED and GRAHAM.

MAKING BREAD IN SICILY.

Among the peasant women of Sieily the making of bread might almost be called a ceremony. There are thymes and prayers for almost every movement required in the process, commencing with:
"To the Father, Son and Holy Ghost." Nothing could induce these women to bake their bread on Sunday or feast day, for there is an old story, handed down for generations, telling the dreadful fate of a woman who baked her bread on the Sah-This poor woman lost two of her children by sudden death, and she herself was afterward killed sudden death, and she herself was afterward silied by her husband, and these three calamities were directly traced by the superstitious to the sacri-legious making of bread on Sunday. Nor is bread made during the first three days of May by these women. At that time the devils are supposed to be rounting about the world, and a woman, who had once refused to give bread to the poor, was afterward obliged to supply all that was demanded of her by three of the satanic tribe, who came in the guise of cavallers.

The bread is baked in different forms, each hav-ing its symbol; that in the form of a cross is called the bread of death, and the elongated loaf is supposed to prevent throat troubles.

TOO OLD TO GO TO WAR.

A drum that was in use in the Revolutionary War, as well as in the War of 1812 and in the Civil War, as well as in the War of 1812 and in the Civil War, is owned by Mrs. Elizabeth McCulloh, of Waverly, Md. The drum, in all likelihood, would have been taken to the front in the Cuban war, thus carrying out Mrs. McCulloh's wish, except that it was somewhat too old-fashioned to suit military notions of the present day.

How few there are who value time aright.
That treasure given by the Infinite!
In youth we squander it. In age we grieve
At sight of loss we never may retrieve.

PEOPLE'S SINGING CLASSES. The advanced class of the people's singing classes, which meets in the large hall of Cooper Union, held its first meeting for the season of less-99 yesterday at 3 p. m. Alfred Hallam led the class, and just before it was dismissed Frank Damrosch made a short address. Mr. Damrosch made an especial point of urging every member of the class to try to secure members for the ele-mentary classes. The elementary classes are of course composed of beginners, while the advanced classes include only those who have passed an examination on the first year's work. There were about five hundred persons at the meeting yesterday. There is another advanced class, which meets at No. 213 East One-hundred-and-twentyfourth-st. Edward G. Marquard is the instructor of that class.

The People's Choral Lieu

of that class.

The People's Choral Union met in the large hall of Cooper Union at 4 p. m. yesterday. The members of the union are all graduates of the advanced or second-year classes. There is only one union, and Frank Damrosch is the director. About twelve hundred members were present yesterday. The subject of study for this year is Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah." Work was begun yesterday, under the direction of Mr. Damrosch, and it is expected that the oratorio will be produced some time rext winter. next winter.

The elementary classes, which meet at eight different places through the city, held their second meeting for the year yesterday. The attendance showed an average increase of about 30 per cent over that of the previous Sunday. The classes will be kept open until November 1. The office at No. 41 University Place is open in the evenings.

GRAND ARMY BUGLE NOTES.

The Department Commander calls attention to the fact that the badge of the Grand Army of the Republic is being worn by people who have no right to that decoration. Commanders who have preceded him issued orders on that subject, and still impostors continue to wear the badges, and to use them as passports and as a means for gaining employment and in some cases, alms.

The flags for the Porto Rico schoolhouses which will be sent to that island about November 1 are nearly ready. The consignment will consist of about four hundred flags, and will be delivered at its destination by a member of Lafayette Post who will be appointed for that purpose.

to see further progress made in the teaching of patriotism and civics in the public schools, and has called attention to the fact that the summer vacation has closed and that the schools are once more

"The efforts heretofore made," he says, "by this organization to encourage the teaching of patriotism in the schools are so worthy of commendation that it is deemed most fitting to call attention to paragraphs 6 7 and 8 of General Orders No. 6, paragraphs 6 7 and 8 of General Orders No. 6, which dwell on the necessity for the development of a uniform system of teaching patriotism and civies in the public schools, and urges comrades to encourage the system. When the order was promulgated the following comrades were appointed a special committee to examine and report to the department as soon as convenient upon the best practical methods of teaching patriotism and civics in the public schools: Members-at-large, Charles T. Saxton. Albert Vander Veer, Charles B. Baker, Joseph A. Goulden, chairman; Henry H. Adams, William C. Morey, A. C. Pickard, George H. Stowitz, Noah Tibhettis, W. H. Scott, Charles A. Pierce and C. A. Rubright.

The committee appointed at that time is continued, and the following comrades have been named as additional members: Joseph W. Kay, Post No. 196, Brooklyn, George B. Loud, Post No. 29 New-York; N. W. Day, Post No. 135, New-York; James H. Jenkins, Post No. 176, Mount Vernon.

At the last meeting of Lafavette Post, which was held on Friday evening, General George L. Gillespie was mustered as a comrade of the post. The following communication from George W. De Long Post No. 45, Honolulu, to Phil Sheridan Post No. 14, Department of the Potomac, was read before that post on Friday evening. "At the last regular meeting of our post, held on the 7th inst., your greeting was read to the officers and members, and the same was most cor-dially and enthusiastically received, and I was instructed to acknowledge the receipt of the same and have the card appropriately framed and placed in our post room. "I can assure you that it gives every member of George W. De Long Post great pleasure to know that our former comrades in arms recognize the bringing 'Little Hawaii' under the glorious and triumphant flag of our Nation, and we feel particularly grateful to Phil Sheridan Post as being the first to welcome us fraternally and loyally as a part of the great empire of liberty, the United States of America. "The fraternal bonds of our order are such that we feel that no further assurance is required from us as comrades of our noble institution to convince you that the same flame of patriotism that burned within our bosoms in 1861 and 1865 burns as brightly as ever; and it was with feelings of great regret that we realized that the hand of 'Father Time had dealt with us to the extent that we were deprived of the pleasant duty of following the old flag through the last campaign and again witnessing the triumphs of liberty over oppression. "We shall ever cherish fond remembrance of Phi Sheridan Post, and now that the annexation of our little island republic to the 'mother country' is accomplished, and our noble flag floats so protecting ly over us, never again to be hauled down, we feel that the last link is forged to bind us all more strongly in the bonds of friendsmp, charity and loyalty, until called to answer the last rollogil.

"Hoping that Phil Sheridan Post may prosper, and that we may all enjoy the liberty which the Stars and Stripes assures us, we greet you with our warmest aloha."

Stars and Stripes assures us, we greet you with our warmest aloha."

Past Commander J. H. Jennings also received a letter from the Honolulu post warning comrades against emigrating to the Hawaiian Islands unless they are provided with sufficient funds to invest in and improve real estate.

The circular is addressed to "all comrades," and reads as follows:

"The annexation of these islands by the United, States has caused many comrades to project attempts to better their condition or to find employment in what they consider a new country.

"Such we consider it our duty to warn and to speak to in plain terms.

"This is in no sense a new country.

"The only opportunity here is for the man of capital.

"There is but limited employment here for mechanics of any kind or for unskilled labor. Manmen of ability, of good habits and first-class recommendations are now here practically stranded. There were idle men in Honolulu before the American flag replaced the Hawaiian flag. Most lines of small business are fully filled and in most cases overcrowded. Do not come here unless you have the assurance in advance of steady employment enterprises requiring means.

"We spread this advice because we wish to save terprises requiring means.

"We spread this advice because we wish to save comrades disappointment and distress. We state the fact as in more than henor bound, and trust sincerely that this circular will accomplish its mission."

The 11th New-York Cavalry, "Scott's Nine Hundred," held its annual reunion in Brooklyn on Thursday evening. About fifty survivors of the regiment, with their wives and children, met at Prospect Hall, where dinner was served at 2 p. m. The session lasted all day, and in the evening the veterans and their families were entertained by Thatford Post.

The following officers were elected: James H

Haight, of Company F, president; John W. Stuart. Company L, vice-president; John Quinn, Company E, chaplain; Thomas W. Smith, Company F, secretary and treasurer; Captain Dagwell, Company C, and Sergeant McDonald, Executive Committee. At the afternoon session eloquent addresses were delivered by Captains Henry M. Calvert and E. D. Benedict. Captain Calvert said in part: "We assemble nowadays only as the remnant of a once-powerful organization, with kindly remembrances for those whom we shall never see Speaking of the history recently published, he said: "It is much more cheerful in divers places than the realities were. This is fortunate for us. The comforts of citizen life have effaced the mem-than the realities were. This is fortunate for us. The comforts of citizen life have effaced the memory of the miseries of our life in the field. I remember that on one of the gruel nights of the Arkansas raid in the winter of 1855, when we were wet, cold, dirty, tired and famished, and hardtack was valued at a dollar aplece, I heard a private of Company F complaining aloud of his lot and demouncing the whole proceeding, and I assured him that in the coming years he would forget the misery and speak to his children only of the good old times.

"It is well that we cannot live those days over again, or recall sensibly the wretchelness of our exposure in the reptile and insect infested bayous of Louisiana, while lying in the long grass at night watching for guerillas. We remember how we often lay in the mud and in the rain without anything between us and the sky; how we fasted for a day or two at a time from other than religious motives, drank dirty water, and ate wormy biscut, repuisive by day, but quite edible at night, suggesting butter. Wonderful was the sudden manner in which the once warring sections of our country became reconciled. Men thought that the deadly hate born of furious lighting for four years and the desolation of the South would have required generations to allay, and yet only thirty-three years after the surrender at Appomattox the whole Nation was knit together as the heart of one man by the act of outsiders in a foreign harbor, and the blue and the gray shook hands and made it up for good. Defenders of the Union. That is a glorious title for men to wear. It is a goodly heritage to bequeath to noble sons like those who carried the Stars and Stripes in Cuba and Porto Rico and the far-off islands of the sea. Let this thought be a joy and consolation to you in the evening of your life, and may that evening in the case of every one of you, be cain and restrui, and undisturbed by any trouble, like the flow of that historic river, long time agitated by the rage of brothers and crimsoned with their

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

George Ring, seventeen years old, of No. 303 West sixty-ninth-st., while stealing a ride on a New-York Central freight train yesterday afternoon lost his hold and fell off while the train was passing his hold and fell on while the train was passing West Eighty-third-st., and was instantly killed, the wheels of fifteen cars running over him. The body was removed to the West Skty-eighth-st. station. The engineer of the train, W. J. Murphy, thirty years old, of Albany, was arrested and locked up.
